

COUNTY TO BUILD OWN HIGHWAYS IF BIDS ARE TOO HIGH

Construction of concrete roads in Rock county to keep pace with the program laid down by the $1,500,000 bond issue of last April may be taken over by the county highway commission this year. Power to organize a corps of road builders in the event the bids for contractors prove too high was given the commission by the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon. The decision was taken after Highway Commissioner Charles E. Moore informed legislators that he believes quotations will reach a prohibitive figure.

If no advocate much road building this year because of high labor and material costs, stated Mr. Moore. "Contractors' bids will be high because they are not certain that they can get materials, machinery or men."

He further remarked that while he was convinced that there might be a possibility that the labor situation will ease up in time and that the supply of machinery will be adequate, he felt that the commission be advised by the board what action should be taken if the bids received were held to be excessive.

Profits Are Big

In the discussion which followed, W. S. Perrio, Beloit, made a statement, purporting to be a profit statement of private builders, by saying the men who built the lower stretch of concrete road leading out of Beloit sold the road for $100,000 and $500 a day on the job. He advised, out of his own experience in building streets in his city, that it would be a fairer proposition to let the contractor take the work. "But don't try to do too much," he pointed out, explaining that the first year should be considered one of the most important.

The motion to allow the commission to reject any and all bids considered by it to be exorbitant, and to permit it to build such roads deemed by it to be wise, was introduced by E. D. McGowan, Janesville. It was carried unanimously.

That Mr. Moore contemplated no opposition by the board to his scheme for county road building was shown by his report that he had recently purchased two large crushers with miniature cars and truck for mixing materials. Loans to the amount of $25,000 were sold Monday to pay for them. The county has its own gravel and sand.

Build Only Edgerton Road.

No matter whether the county or outside contractor build the roads this spring and summer, the board was told that the commission did not deem it advisable to construct more than the Janesville-Edgerton road, a stretch of 12 miles. The Janesville-Beloit road, of which seven miles have been finished at a cost of $250,000, will be completed. The program for 1921 calls for building of the Janesville-Evanston road and the Beloit-Clinton stretch.

Mr. Moore's report was received yesterday, brought out that the cost for building and keeping up roads in 1920 will reach $500,000. The cost of construction last year was $1,400,000, while $12,490 was spent for trunk line maintenance and $85,033 for other upkeep.

During the reading of the report by Mr. Moore, a wordy tilt ensued between him and Supervisor Perrio, who declared he could see no building being done for Beloit. Mr. Moore pointed out the eight miles of concrete road.

T. R.'S BIRTHPLACE IS TO BE RESTORED

[By Associated Press.]

New York, (By Mail)—The birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt at 23 East Twentieth Street, New York, is to be restored as nearly as possible to its condition in 1883, according to the officials of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association, holding a recent conference here with the date Pope (Mrs. John W. Riddle), the architect having the plans in charge.

An adjoining house at No. 28 has also been purchased and both structures will be renovated to conform to the architectural style of the former president's birth. They will have brownstone fronts and mansard roofs and the interior of No. 28 will be made to resemble the boyhood home of the great American. Old mantels, chandeliers and furniture will be put back in place and children's friends of the colonel will supervise the decorations.

A Rooseveltian library consisting of his books of rugged outdoor life and Americanism and other writings and published speeches will be placed in the house at No. 28. Many other volumes the colonel liked to read and dealing with many phases of human knowledge will be placed on the shelves.

According to the architect's plans the top floor of both houses will be utilized for an assembly hall, suitable for gathering of Boy Scouts, Camp Girls or similar civic organizations. When completed the memorial is intended to serve as an institution for the development of sturdy, old-fashioned Americanism.

Red Cheeks and Pep

Red Cheeks and Pep

By Mollie E. Cook.

"Elizabeth, close those windows. You are freezing us out."

"I'll say so," Jack called.

"Of course you feel fresh air every hour," answered Elizabeth, "and it is too cold to keep the windows open all the time, they should be opened frequently letting in fresh air and closed when it is too cold. We can exercise while they are open."

"I get enough exercise," said Jack.

"You don't get a lot, Jack, but there are jolly things to do in the house that you wouldn't dare do outdoors. For instance, this is an exercise that girls like and there's no reason why boys should not try it."

Elizabeth held to the back of a chair with her right hand and balanced herself on her left foot, with her left leg stretched as far back and as high up as possible. Elizabeth, with her right foot on the floor, extended her right arm outward and pointing the toe. Her left arm extended diagonally forward above her head.

"This is harder than it looks," said Elizabeth.

"I'll say so," said Jack, trying to hold the position.

"Here is another exercise."

Elizabeth put her hands on her hips. Then keeping the body erect, she extended the other foot forward, and raised her body up and down 10 times. With each swing back and forth. Then she changed to the other foot and repeated the exercise.

This exercise can be started by pointing the toe of the free foot, touching it to the floor and kicking outward from five to 10 times; then changing feet.

Kick-A-Cow:—Hands on hips, body erect, kicking forward alternately and as rapidly as possible, toes pointed and just skimming the floor.

—Same exercise, kicking backward instead of forward. A Rev. girl can think up all variations to exercises of this kind.

REV. MILLAR TELLS OF NORTHERN NORWAY

An entertaining lecture by Rev. Perry Millar on the topic, "The Land of the Midnight Sun," a Rev. girl can think up all variations to exercises of this kind.

(Next week: "Bobbed and Hay-rack Rides.")

It was an account of a trip to Norway taken by him and some years ago, and included besides descriptions of the scenery and customs of the country, many personal experiences which lent interest to the lecture. He traveled through Scotland, England, France, Denmark and Sweden to North Cape, which was the farthest point north of the journey. Here the sun was visible all the time, making midnight as bright as noonday.

Some stereoscopic pictures were shown at the close of the lecture. It was given under the auspices of the Methodist church here.

George E. Green was the organist.

HIGHWAY TRAILER CO. BUSINESS BOOMS

[By Special Correspondent.]

Edgerton, Jan. 15.—The Highway Trailer Co. of this city at its last directors meeting decided to increase its issue of stock. This company was organized with an issue of $100,000. The stock was subscribed almost entirely by local people. At the beginning the company occupied the building formerly owned by the Edgerton Wagon company. Each year it has made substantial additions to its plant. A new building was started last fall and the board of directors completed before the weather conditions made further work impossible.

At the last meeting of the directors it was decided to increase the size of this building now under construction. It will be 160 by 650 feet. During the month of December 1919, the company did a business of $102,000. Orders received so far this month total over $30,000. The new stock issue will concern a half-million corporation.

SANATORIUM PROJECT AGAIN SIDETRACKED

Consideration of the building of a tuberculosis sanatorium for this county has again been sidetracked. When the project was taken up by the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon, John A. Paul, representing Milton, immediately moved that it be laid on the table until the April meeting of the board.

The only discussion of the matter, which has been advocated for many years but has always been put off, was made by E. D. McGowan, Janesville, misinterpreted Mr. Paul's move. "Thinking that the representative had the floor to favor the matter, he asked: 'Are you looking for a fight?'"

Basketball Team Play

By M. C. (Fat) Page.

Team work is the cornerstone of success in basketball as in every other game. It means the working out of the best system of play for the whole team. It means that every man must put himself into that system. The team must think and move as one man.

Several systems of play have been worked out.

The lone star system is built upon the spread, endurance and all round brilliance of one man. He plays the floor and works the ball into his opponent's territory where either he or one of the forwards who stay near their opponent's basket can get a shot. To do this he must be very good at dribbling. The other four men play in a stationary position, two as stationary forwards, and two as rough guards who lay back and fight all opposition. The drawback to this system is that the forward is stopped the whole team is stopped.

The two pivot man system uses three speedy floor men who play the floor rather than territory. Two are stationary forwards, and the other as a stationary guard. The stationary forward is fed the ball at every opportunity. This system of play usually calls for a pretty extensive use of the long pass.

The short pass system, four or five men play the ball. This system requires the quick, shifty, shifty play of the forwards. The stationary forward is fed the ball at every opportunity. This system of play usually calls for a pretty extensive use of the long pass.

The five man defense system uses the five men play the ball. This system requires the quick, shifty, shifty play of the forwards. The stationary forward is fed the ball at every opportunity. This system of play usually calls for a pretty extensive use of the long pass.

Accuser of Famous Singer May Share In Deportation

CHICAGO.—Mile. Elvira Amazar, the beautiful, young soprano who caused the arrest of Georges Baklanoff, the famous baritone of the Chicago Opera company, charging him with bringing her to America five years ago although he had a wife and seven children living in Russia, has herself been taken into custody on a similar warrant.

Both singers were released on bond after hearings had been begun. Assistant Immigration Commissioner E. C. Eason said that the full details of the cases would be placed before Secretary of Labor Wilson in Washington and that the evidence would be recommended to be made that both be deported.

Much Talking Done

Meaningless talk, doing a great deal of talking about the other, in the course of which temperament comes strongly to the forefront. Baklanoff says that jealousy is the cause of all his troubles.

"Marry her?" asked the baritone. "Why, I would be delighted. But how can I marry her? I don't know whether I am married or not. I have written to my wife many times, but have never received a reply."

"I did not bring Amazar here from Russia. She loves me, yes, but she is so jealous. Even against the walls, a bureau, anything at all she can get her hands on, she will destroy it. I am this jealousy of Mile. Amazar, against everything, against my friends, my art, my walking stick. What do I do?"

Can't Jump Into Marriage

"This scandal is disgusting. I can't jump into marriage. I am already married. I am married to a woman who is a singer in the Boston Opera company, and when I went under I came to Chicago. I am certainly not a revolutionary. I like the United States best of all."

When the full complaint was taken before Mr. Eby, her soprano voice was quickly silenced in defense of her life with the baritone.

"We have been together five years," said the soprano. "I believed he was unmarried and would marry me. Now I find he has a wife and several little Baklanoffs in Russia. He deceived me cruelly."

Baklanoff's position with the opera company will not be jeopardized for the present as a result of the disclosures. His engagements for the remainder of the season will be carried out, according to E. C. Eason, agent of the company.

After his arrest Baklanoff sang Guido, in Monni Vanna with Mary Gardner. He had this to say of his performance:

"I have been singing for 15 years. I was unmarry and would marry me. Now I find he has a wife and several little Baklanoffs in Russia. He deceived me cruelly."

HOW TO COOK RICE
To Boil Rice—Three quarts of water, one cup rice, one tablespoon salt. Wash the rice in cold water. The easiest way is to put the rice in a strainer, then put it in the cold water. In this way none of the rice is lost and time is saved by having the rice in the strainer instead of having to collect scattered grains in a big pan of water. After the rice has been washed, drain, then pour into the three quarts of rapidly boiling water to which the salt has been added.

Cook rapidly until the water boils again, stirring constantly, then lower the fire to a point where the water will boil, but not boil over. It is necessary to stir again a fork should be used to prevent breaking the grains. If the water should boil away more boiling water should be added.

From 15 to 20 minutes will be required, then pour the rice into a colander. Let it drain, then blanch with cold water. Set the colander on a pan in a warm place to dry off and keep hot for serving.
Rice and Dates—Boil one cup of rice until tender according to rules given in this article. Remove the stones from half a pound of dates, and one tablespoon sugar and half a cup of boiling water. Let simmer five minutes.

On serving dish make a border of the rice lightly heaped up. Fill the center with the cooked dates and serve with milk or cream.
One can also prepare the rice with seeded raisins in place of the dates, using the same proportions as mentioned above.

SUGARLESS PIE
Measure nine tablespoonfuls of molasses in a cup of water, add to this six tablespoonfuls of vinegar mixed with two rounding tablespoonfuls of flour, one-quarter teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg; line a pie dish with plain paste, dot with bits of butter, fill with the mixture, and bake 30 minutes.

Cheep Cake—One cup of sugar, butter the size of a hickory nut, one egg, three-quarters cup milk, two cups flour, two level teaspoons baking powder. Flavoring.

Rice Coconut Pie—Line a deep pan with pastry. Add the following filling, bake slowly until firm, then spread the top with currant or other jelly and sprinkle with coconut.

Filling—Two tablespoons butter creamed with a cup of sugar, the beaten yolks of three eggs, one teaspoon cornstarch, half a cup of finely shredded coconut and half a cup of cooked rice soaked in two cups of milk.

This is a good way to utilize egg yolks that have been left in preparing some other dish.

As with the pie filling, the rice may be used in omelets to "stretch" the number of eggs used, thereby saving a large number.

The name Halina Bruzovna means very little now to the American theater-going public, but it means a great deal to Poland. There it means what Sarah Bernhardt means in France.

Before the war, Mme. Bruzovna was the idol of the Polish stage. At the state theater in Warsaw she played leading roles under the direction of Richard Orlynski, now stage manager of the Metropolitan.

TRAVELETTE

By Nikesh.

One of the gayest and most popular watering resorts of Europe is Biarritz in France, about 40 miles from the Spanish border. Its nearness to Spain has colored its landscape and architecture somewhat, giving it the picturesque quality of both countries. It is a beautiful place, with its cream-colored, red-roofed villas, dark pine trees, winding walks, and crescent of white sandy beach guarded at either end by high, rocky bluffs, rising abruptly from the sea. Before the war it was the scene of frivolity and fashion, rivaling Monte Carlo in its gambling, dancing and display. It was a favorite resort with one of England's more playful kings in his lighter moments. Its main street is called Rue Edouard VII in honor of him.

The war brought a sudden change of mood to Biarritz. Its gambling casinos and hotels were turned into hospitals for wounded French, and later of war ships passed close to its shores on their way through the Bay of Biscay. Numerous ships were torpedoed in sight of the shore by German submarines lurking along the Spanish coast. The coast was heavily mined, and from time to time the detonation of a mine would shake the town.

The convalescent Americans nevertheless appreciated the beauty and comparative quiet of the spot after the front. They especially enjoyed the golf, tennis, and bathing. Before the advent of hordes of Yankees to the surf, the life of the French life was a peaceful and uneventful one, as the average Frenchman considers surf bathing more in the light of an opportunity to let one's hair down and lounge languidly and safely about, close to shore, and admire the remarkable, not to say startling, bathing costumes. AMERICAN CREED

IS TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 15.—A campaign to teach Americanism "to offset the treason taught by the Reds" began in Chicago's public schools today with the distribution to every pupil of "The American Creed," furnished by the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. This is the creed:

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag and to defend it against all enemies."

on the other hand were given to swimming out boldly until they were nothing but bobbing black specks on the water. This caused the emotional life guards much alarm. They rushed frantically up and down the beach, blowing little whistles to the daring ones, calling and gesticulating. In fact, they did everything to keep the possibly drowning men to come to shore except to venture in after them.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I find many asking you the same questions about heartaches, love affairs and falling in love with other men and women whom they already have someone whom they should love and honor. The greatest blessing that God can bestow on any individual is a true love. They alone should be enough to keep happiness in the home. Among all the unions of mankind marriage is intended by God to be the most perfect.

Marriage is not a mere contract between individuals dependent on the whims and fancies of those who make it, not a contract which the state can ratify or annul, but a covenant that is sealed by God.

I am not married and am past 35. I am happy? Yes, to a certain extent. As I am sitting alone in my room this Sunday night I am beginning to realize what I am missing. I am picturing to myself a happy home, someone to love and my children (talking about me). Oh, my, I am happy? You who have husbands and children, why are you not happy?

No one seems to love me. Therefore I can never be happy until the Lord wills otherwise.

LOST LOVE.
Your letter will make many disappointed mothers feel ashamed. What you have said is very true indeed. It is not that the women cannot be happy. Happiness comes from helping others and showing them how to be happy. Why don't you write to any of the women's magazines they can suggest various ways in which you can be of great service.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 18 years old and keep company with a boy of 18. I like the boy all right.

but not his name. He is a German Lutheran while I am a little Irish girl. Should his name make any difference with my going with him? I stay home from places of amusement to respect him, but he does not do that for me. Should I go places and have a good time without him? BLUE EYES.

It would be silly to let the name stand between you if you really like the boy. His character and personality are what count.

At the age of 18 you should not have a sweetheart. There is safety in numbers and if you go with boys at all, you should have different friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I enclosed 75c in a letter for a book. The letter got lost, but the publishing company mailed me a copy of this book and said they were willing to bear this loss.

They said that in the future I should send a money order, check or registered letter to insure safe delivery.

Should I send them another 75c or not? BLIND.
It will be all right to accept the book without sending the money. You might, however, write the person signing the letter and thank him for his courtesy.

Thank you for your answer to my letter. Personally I do not approve of informal introductions, and therefore I thoroughly agree with your decision in this matter.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

I've had a thrill—and a big surprise. I have married an average man.

Deciding to be very devilish and mischievous, I decided to dine at Athena's. Across the room sat a woman nervously making bread-cakes and nibbling olives. She was a small, anemic creature, fussy, nervous and cruelly cosmopolitan. She gave the impression of being a foreigner inside. One felt that her heart was beating too fast, her blood racing, her nerves on the stretch, her eyes burning, she kept looking about the room. Presently a man came in, hesitated, then sat down in the vacant place opposite her. I took little notice of them for a time.

As Athena and I were sipping a couple of Athena's imported cordials (not the kind his patrons usually get, but the ones you ask for specially) I noticed that the man with the dynamic little woman was leaving. He did not come back.

"What do you think of that?" I said to Athena, whose back was toward the woman. "The man slips out and leaves that woman to settle with the waiter. She's asking for the money now. Look!"

Athena looked. "That woman," she whispered, "is Fanny Frisbie. You see what she has come home with."

I was amazed. She was utterly different from what I had pictured. I knew she must be a good woman. I felt she might be common. But that she could be reduced to circumstances where such humiliation was possible, well, that was a new thing. Perhaps a little curiosity, too.

"I'm going over," I said. Athena shrugged her shoulders. "I shouldn't bother. She'll probably insult you." Of course, if you want to risk it.

"Isn't this Mrs. Frisbie?" I began.

coming within speaking distance. "Yes," she said. My husband has spoken of his old friends the Frisbies."

I got no further, because Fanny Frisbie's face suddenly took on the look of panic. She blushed so painfully that in sheer pity I lowered my eyes. Her face twitched with nervousness. She tried to get up, but I started at her gloves instead, pulling them on with frenzied jerks. She moistened her lips and swallowed several times, like a child who has forgotten his "piece."

Somehow I knew as plainly as if a scientist told me she was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature, not necessarily vicious, simply weak and goaded by an uncontrollable force. "Yes," she finally said, rising. "I wanted to come and see you. But I'm leaving—I'm going away. You'll excuse me, won't you?" And in a moment she had gone from the place.

"Well," said Athena, as I returned to my table to get my hat. "To think I ever had an unhappy moment over the existence of that poor, forlorn, unattractive, frightened little creature."

"My dear, we all have multiple natures," interrupted Athena, finishing her cordial. "It depends on our environment. I can't say she was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature. She was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature."

"Yes," she said, "she was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature. She was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature."

"Yes," she said, "she was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature. She was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature."

"Yes," she said, "she was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature. She was a poor, nervous, neurotic little creature."

SAVE THE WRAPPER—II
Young people, when we are well off, the only condition of the skin with the shiny nose which often accompanies it, so much complained of by young people, is a natural physiological feature of wholesome youth and good health. Enlarged pores, as the ignorant "beauty specialists" call the visible oil ducts, are also characteristic of the physiological functional activities of youth. Comedones (blackheads) are oil ducts clogged with sebum or skin oil. Two mouth of the oil duct being filled with a brown or black plug of comedone matter. That these comedones frequently become infected with the pus-producing germs which are generally present on the surface of the cleanest and healthiest skin, is hardly a field of normal physiology. Pimples spell youth and are good for youth.

Also, so many young people have sensitive skins. The constant effort of misguided young people today, particularly members of the more cretinous sex, is to make the skin oil prematurely. Girls do not want to be girls, though mature women strive desperately to look like more girls. Girls want to be old women, and they adopt old woman trappings just as early in life as their fool mothers and fathers will permit. Girls with narrow heels; those which rob the skin of its oil, its natural beauty, and makes it prematurely dry, wrinkled, rough and atrophic. Life is a queer proposition. Sweet 16 years to be 40 and 40 lies awake nights planning how she may make a noise like sweet 16.

Then, too, there is pretty Percy. Percy is the regular magazine style of collar and the pretty picture style of clothes. Percy is strong on "class," if a trifle weak in the attic. When he shaves he makes a great deal about it. His shaving is to him a solemn ceremony. You hear more about Percy's shaving troubles in this country than you hear of the morning bath of your favorite novel hero. When Percy is shaved he has to meditate on his face. He has something at alcohol, bay rum, witch hazel, toilet water or some kind. This removes the oil which keeps the skin in young. In little while Percy's face is as old as his father's or older.

The most attractive faces I have ever looked at were adorned with shiny noses. Yes, when the skin has no shine because the physiological conditions are no longer there to maintain the normal secretion of skin oil. Yes, when the woman at length achieves an unshining nose, she is getting old. Why hasten the
